

Abstract of the Disclosure

A multichannel frequency domain equalizer improves the subchannel signal to noise ratio by canceling correlated noise that is caused by deterministic spreading at the receiver that introduces correlation into the subchannel noise vector.